Eligibility for use

You must be a foreign tourist visiting Japan from abroad for sightseeing, with an entry status of "Short-term Stay", "Short-term Stay" entry, according to the Japanese Immigration Control Act, allows a stay in Japan of 15 days or up to 90 days for sightseeing, etc. If you apply for a stay for sightseeing when you enter Japan, the immigration officer will stamp or seal your passport as "Short-term Stay". In order to use the pass, your passport must bear this stamp or seal.

[Points to note]

• Even if you have an MCO with you, you cannot exchange it for a pass unless you have an entry status of "Short-term Stay". (If you enter Japan with any other status such as "Trainee", "Entertainer", or "Re-entry Permit", you cannot change your MCO for the pass. Please note that the concept of "Short-term Stay" under the Japanese Immigration Control Act is completely different from what is commonly referred to as a "short-term visit".)
